Topic : How to Publish Manuscript in High Impact Journal.

ABSTRACT

Publishing a high quality manuscript is an essential aspect for all researchers. Up to date, there are many inventions and innovations that have been communicated to the outside world through publications. It is essential that this knowledge is accurate, valid, innovative and novel. Many researchers dream of publishing their work in high impact journals. For this reason to come through, each researcher needs to know the art and basic principles of preparing their manuscript according to the standards and requirements of the journal that they intended to submit. In this discussion, an insider's view of what the editors are looking forward to for a manuscript to be accepted and published will be thoroughly discussed and presented.
